

Assembled with multi-busbar PERC cells, the half-cell configuration of the modules offers superior performance in low light conditions and high temperatures. The modules are designed for easy installation and maintenance, making them a reliable choice for solar energy systems.

